OUINTREX HISTORY

FOR 75 INCREDIBLE YEARS, QUINTREX HAS BEEN NURTURED AROUND A PASSION FOR BOATING WITH ITS FOUNDATIONS GROUNDED IN AN AMBITION TO DELIVER AN ON-WATER EXPERIENCE LIKE NO OTHER. FROM ITS CONCEPTION IN 1945 TO TODAY, THE BRAND HAS CONTINUED TO REINVENT BOATING BY DELIVERING HULL DESIGNS THAT ACHIEVE AN UNRIVALLED RIDE PERFORMANCE THANKS TO INNOVATIVE TECHNOLOGIES CREATED BY ITS FOREFATHERS, TERRY QUANTRILL AND ARTHUR ARNOLD.

Pioneering stretch forming techniques, Quintrex expertly molds each hull by hand, which has earnt the brand a reputation for an unmatched smooth, dry ride. Together Quintrex hulls cut through water with ease because of their concave and convex designs that were once only possible with fiberglass.

In finessing the skill of stretch forming, Quintrex utilises a purpose-built hydraulic system which elongates each flat aluminium sheet over a precise forming dye. When changing the shape of the aluminium, the metal goes through a process called "Work Hardening". When performed correctly, the overall strength of the material is increased by altering the crystal structure of the aluminium, therefore making Quintrex boats safer and

The combination of ingenuity and the investment in stretch forming practices has enabled the fruition of the industry renowned 'Blade Hull', 'Flared Bow' and flagship 'Apex Hull'. Whilst versatile in delivering a perfect boat for every waterway, each hull variation is designed with a flawless balance – a sharp entry to deliver comfortable handling while underway and a strong structure to achieve stability while at rest.

Over 270 skilled professionals are at the heart of Quintrex. With an eye for detail and four quality control points throughout the Gold Coast factory, each boat is hand built from scratch with quality at the crux of creation. Crafted by the best in the trade from design conception to welding, paint, and finish, you can be assured that your boat will last for generations to come.

As the most modern and ground-breaking design to hit the water, the Apex Hull has set a new benchmark for aluminium boating.

Following years of research and development, the Apex Hull has revolutionised the pinnacle of on-water performance with an all-round smoother, stronger and more superior ride.

Scientifically formed with 4mm to 5mm bottom sheets and 3mm side sheets of the highest quality marine grade aluminium, it is built to take choppy conditions head-on. A carefully sculpted flare runs strategically aft to maintain contact with the water while on the plane and slice through the water. Its wide, sweeping chine opens the front of the hull, allowing the flare to carry further up the stem line for an impressively smooth ride in all environments.

Due to the wide chine, the Apex boasts remarkable stability and grip when cornering. Whilst an increased bow surface area allows optimal lift to maintain a level attitude.

Together with its impeccable ride, the Apex Hull design also allows for more usable internal space. Thanks to fully welded Raised Side Decks on select Apex models, the internal volume jumps by 20% along with the freeboard by 80mm.

The overall footprint of the Apex Hull has also been dialed up by 5% with its forked bow design allowing for more user functionality in the nose of the boat. Crafted in such a way, the design allows for an expansive bow seating area in the Freestyler models and an impressive casting platform across the Frontier and Hornet ranges.

Up sized from every angle, the Apex Hull is an eyecatcher on the water, that dials up the boating experience with more comfort, safety and fishability.

Experience the APEX of boating with Quintrex.

As the most versatile and widely practiced design within Quintrex's range of large boats, the Blade Hull has affixed itself as one of the most sought-after hulls in the market. Through the innovative practices of stretch-forming aluminium, Quintrex has made waves in the industry with a vessel perfect for all conditions. Built for offshore conditions, the Blade Hull cuts through rough water with ease because of its sharp, sleek shape and increased deadrise.

Centered around a fine-tuned balance of convex and concave shapes, the Blade Hull delivers a lower planing speed and improved top-end speeds, increasing the overall energy efficiency of any boat.

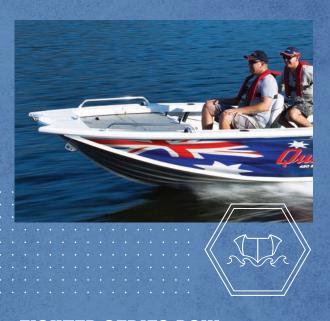

FLARED BOW

As a nod to history and the power of innovation, Quintrex's iconic Flared Bow design remains a cornerstone of manufacturing today. Marking the inception of the infamous flared bow, Quintrex's iconic design signifies a moment in history that changed the world of aluminium boating forever.

First performed by founder, Terry Quantrill, the flared bow highlights a pivot-point which enabled the brand to deliver an incomparable ride performance. Through its concave shape, achieved only by stretch-forming aluminium, the Flared Bow deflects water spray away from the boat achieving a dry and comfortable ride. Innovative developments such as the Flared Bow are at the core of the Quintrex brand, and are reason for its unrivaled success and quality.

FIGHTER SERIES BOW

As passionate fishos who are committed towards delivering a ride catered to every boatie, the Quintrex Research and Development team have crafted the perfect fishing hull. Designed with a forked bow, the Fighter Series Hull allows for the front deck and casting platform area to be increased by 11%. Together with its impressive stability at rest, large storage capacity and easy installation of electric motors, the Fighter Series Bow not only promises ease of fishing but also exceeds all your angling needs. Built to traverse through estuaries, creeks and lakes, the Fighter Series Bow delivers an inland fishing experience like no other.

THE TRIDENT USTORY

Building on the powerhouse of Quintrex boats, Australia's leading aluminium boat brand launched its first ever brand-exclusive plate lineup in 2012 with the Trident cuddy-cabin range and has since boomed, quickly establishing itself as the king of the ocean.

In line with Quintrex's long-rooted reputation of being the industry-leader in marine since its inception in 1945, the Trident range is derived from years of research and development, in turn delivering a groundbreaking offshore boat. Crafted around innovation, Quintrex's plate boat range incorporates revolutionary technologies such as aluminium stretch-forming, to achieve a superior ride experience. The Blade Hull, a staple in the Trident range, has affirmed itself as a boating icon due to its soft, dry ride. The concave flared side sheets and bottom sheets deliver a sharper entry point, increased deadrise and a narrower shoulder that allows the hull to cut through choppy conditions with ease. Carefully crafted to expertly handle unruly open waters, the Trident is grounded in strength, with 5mm plate bottom sides and a strategic egg-crate construction with fully-welded 5mm longitudinal and latitudinal ribs.

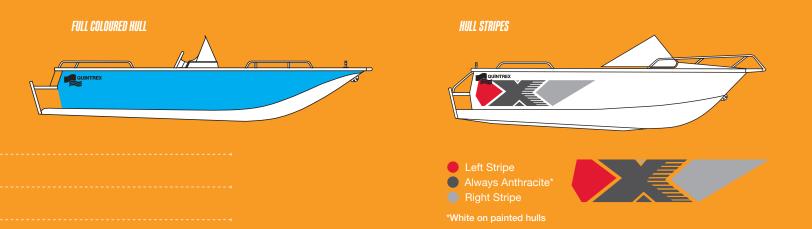

Available in three size variations which all offer a spacious open deck, plus fishing essentials such as a kill tank, self-draining floor, marine radio, cutting board and much more as standard, Quintrex has reinvented offshore boating.

The fish are on – be sure to take them head on with the industry leading Trident plate boat.
